

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. OF THE
SECRETARY OF STATE,
OF THE
STATE OF WISCONSIN, FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1877.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,
MADISON, October 10, 1877.

To His Excellency, HARRISON LUDINGTON,
Governor of the State of Wisconsin:

SIR: In compliance with the requirements of law, I have the honor to submit the annual report of the Secretary of State for the year ending September 30, 1877, embracing statements and tabular exhibits of the receipts and expenditures of the state during the past fiscal year, with such other information as the law authorizes or requires to have included in such report.

On September 30, 1876, the total balance in the state treasury was $315,866.61.

The total balance on September 30, 1877, was $278,264.34.

The condition of each fund is shown in the statements herewith submitted.

The receipts and disbursements for the fiscal year just ended, including the balances on hand from the preceding year, were as follows:

SCHOOL FUND.

The school fund is composed of—

1. Proceeds of sales of land granted by the United States for the support of schools.
2. Moneys accruing from forfeiture or escheat, and penalties for trespass on school lands.
3. All fines collected in the several counties for breaches of penal laws.
4. All moneys paid as an exemption from military duty; and
5. Five per cent. on sale of government lands.

COMMISSIONERS' CONTINGENT FUND.

The legislatures of 1860 and 1861 made appropriations amounting to one thousand and fifty dollars, for the purpose of defraying the expenses referred to in the acts making the appropriations. This was the origin of the Commissioners' Contingent Fund. Since that time, certain fees collected in the land office for miscellaneous services have been placed to the credit of this fund. The original appropriations having been exhausted, the balance on hand was transferred to the general fund at the close of the fiscal year ending September 30, 1874.

It has, however, been thought advisable to reopen the account, so as to show receipts and expenditures incident thereto.

Due from counties on state tax of 1876	821 12

ESTIMATES OF REVENUES AND EXPENDITURES.

For the Year Commencing January 1, 1879.

In defining the duties of the secretary of state as auditor, the law provides, among other things, that he shall annually submit with his report, a detailed estimate of expenditures to be defrayed from the treasury for the ensuing year, specifying each object of expenditure; that he shall distinguish between such as are provided for by permanent or temporary appropriations, and such as are required to be provided for by law; and that he shall also make estimates showing the sources from which such expenditures are to be defrayed.

Chapter 5 of the revised statutes provides that where the word year is used it shall be construed to mean a calendar year unless otherwise expressed, and hence, for several years past, the estimates have been made for the calendar and not for the fiscal year.

Estimates of receipts and disbursements for the year commencing January 1, 1878, were submitted in the last report of this office. These were reviewed by the last legislature, and a tax based on the estimates then adopted was authorized to be levied, being of such an amount as it appeared would, with the receipts from other sources, be sufficient to defray the expenditures for the year named. These estimates, as revised, will be found on page 437 of the Senate Journal for 1877.

In addition to this tax, there was levied by this office under the provisions of chapter 153, general laws of 1869, the sum of $84,062. 15. This tax was, on the second Monday of the present month, apportioned among the various counties, and certified to the county clerks in pursuance of the requirements of law, and will be paid into the state treasury in the months of January and February next.

The estimates given below are, therefore, for the year commencing January 1, 1879.

Relative to these estimates, it may be remarked that while it is not easy to determine with any great degree of accuracy the amounts that may be needed for some of the purposes stated, owing to the fact that such estimates are made so long in advance of the time to which they are applicable, yet, as they are intended mainly to be only a guide for legislative action, they may answer a useful purpose in this regard.

The accuracy of the estimates will, of course, depend largely on the action of the next legislature in making appropriations; but as there will be ample opportunity for a review of such estimates by the legislature before any tax based thereon is levied, any change which circumstances may require, or which legislative action may render necessary, can easily be made.

It is believed that the foregoing estimates will be sufficient for the purposes indicated, and that the amounts given will be sufficient for the general expenses of the state, should no circumstance arise rendering extraordinary appropriations necessary.

It has not been thought best to include any estimate of the amount that may be required to pay for the publication of the revision of the statutes now being made, and which will doubtless be submitted at the next session of the legislature, as there will be ample opportunity for legislative consideration of the subject at the proper time, and the condition of the matter is not now sufficiently definite to justify an estimate of the sum that may be needed for that purpose.

An item of $7,000 is given as an estimate of the expense relative to the artificial propagation of fish. The appropriations for this purpose thus far have been $360 in 1874; $2,000 in 1875; $10,000 in 1876; and $8,000 in 1877. It is thought that the amount named above will be sufficient for the year for which these estimates are made.

Chapter 366, laws of 1876, appropriates annually $3,000, or such portion thereof as may be thought necessary by the state board of health, to pay the salary of the secretary of said board, and meet contingent and other expenses. The total amount is given in the estimates, it being thought that it is not more than will be necessary for the purposes stated.

Chapter 330, laws of 1875, provides that each military company or battery, complying with the conditions named in said act, shall be entitled to the sum of three hundred dollars per annum, and limits the number of said companies to twenty-four. The sum of $7,200 is given in the estimates to cover the expenditure authorized by this act, as it is probable that the entire amount allowed will be needed.

Chapter 323, laws of 1875, provides for giving aid to high schools complying with the conditions prescribed in said act. The amount paid for this purpose for 1876 was nearly $8,000. As such payments are not made until on or after the 1st day of December, the amount for the present year can not be given. The sum which it is thought will be necessary in 1879, will be found in the estimates.

Section 1, chapter 49, general laws of 1870, provided for the admission to the Normal schools of the state, of pupils of the Soldiers' Orphans' Home, on the conditions set forth in the act. This was amended by chapter 121, general laws of 1872, to which acts reference is made. Chapter 72, laws of 1874, made provision for the care of inmates of the Home in private families and private orphan asylums. The sum of $2,500 is given in the estimates to meet the expenses arising from these acts.

Chapter 117, laws of 1876, provides that there shall be levied and collected annually a tax of one-tenth of a mill on each dollar of taxable property in the state, and that the amount so collected shall form a part of the university fund income. The sum to be levied will therefore vary according to the assessment and equalization of the property of the state. The amount levied the present year was $42,359.02. As another equalization of the value of property will be made in May next, the amount to be levied in 1878 will doubtless be different from the foregoing, and it is hoped will be considerably in excess of it.

In 1875, the sum of eighty thousand dollars was appropriated for the purpose of building a hall for scientific purposes, in connection with the University. The sum of twenty-five thousand dollars of this amount was levied and collected in 1875, and the balance in 1876. The hall was completed in June of the present year. It does not appear probable, therefore, that there will be any extraordinary appropriations necessary for University purposes during the coming year. This matter will, however, doubtless be referred to at length in the annual report of the Board of Regents.

It is not thought that appropriations to any of the existing state institutions will be needed for building purposes, and hence the estimates include only the amounts which it is believed will be necessary to defray current expenses. In making estimates for the two Insane Asylums and the Industrial School for Boys, the amounts to be received from counties under the provisions of chapter 176, general laws of 1872, and chapter 66, general laws of 1870, have been taken into account. The amounts certified the present year under these laws have been as follows: For Northern Hospital for the Insane, $47,927.90; Wisconsin State Hospital, $35,003.75; Industrial School for Boys, $10,194.50.

In 1876, the legislature provided by joint resolution No. 13, for an examination of the matter of providing a suitable institution for the better care and maintenance of the incurable insane. The commission appointed agreed on the necessity of having such an institution as early as practicable, but no definite action on the subject has yet been taken by the legislature. It is believed, however, that such action can hardly fail to result in making provision for the purpose indicated, and this will, of course, require an appropriation. No estimate is given of the amount that may be needed, as there will be ample opportunity for a consideration of the matter by the legislature before the estimates herein submitted will be needed as a basis for legislative action.

The report of the State Board of Charities and Reform, which is not required to be made until December, will doubtless contain much information relative to the various state institutions, which can not be obtained at this early date. The reports of the various local boards will also be valuable in the same way.

Estimates for other purposes have been carefully made, and in doing so, past expenditures, existing laws, and other circumstances have been duly considered.

It is believed that the estimates of revenues are reasonably accurate, and that the amounts to be derived from the various sources indicated will not differ materially from the sums herein stated, should there be no change in the legislation now relating to such revenues.

STATE PRINTING.

In the last report of this office, reference was made to the fact that in June, 1876, a contract for doing the state printing for 1877 and 1878 was entered into with Messrs. Carpenter & Tenney, they having been the lowest bidders for doing such printing.

The execution of this contract was commenced on the first day of January of the present year. After having done the work for a few months, the contractors made an arrangement with David Atwood, by which he was to continue the performance of said contract. This has been done up to the present time.

The contract has been a very advantageous one for the state, the rates being unusually low. It is not deemed necessary, however, to elaborate this subject here, the matter being referred to in the report of the commissioners of printing, which is given herein in appendix "N."

ASSESSMENT OF PROPERTY FOR TAXATION.

As a compilation of the Assessment laws, with suitable forms and instructions has been published annually, and distributed among town and county officers, it is not deemed necessary to refer at length in this report to the existing laws relative to the subject of taxation. Nor is it thought advisable to attempt a general examination of the matter of assessment, or of the principles that underlie it, the matter being one that has from time to time, received the careful consideration of the legislature.

Little more will be done, therefore, than to refer to the official action of this office during the past year, under the laws of the state, with such incidental reference to the laws as may appear to be necessary to a correct understanding of the subject.

Chapter 235 of the general laws of 1873, provides that the secretary of state, state treasurer, and attorney general, shall constitute a state board of assessment, and also prescribes that said board shall meet on the third Wednesday in May, biennially. The first meeting of the board was held in May, 1874, as prescribed by statute, and the total equalized value of property in the state for 1874 and 1875 was determined.

The next meeting was held May 17, 1876, and the valuation for 1876 and 1877 was determined on. This will be found in the proper place in the appendix. The state tax for the present year was apportioned on this valuation, and the amount to be levied on each county was duly certified to the county clerk thereof in accordance with the provisions of chapter 94 of the general laws of 1871.

By chapter 106, general laws of 1869, it is provided that it shall be the duty of the assessor or assessors of each town, ward or city, respectively in this state, to ascertain and set down, at the time of making the annual assessment for each year, in separate columns prepared for that purpose, on the assessment roll, the number and value of the items of personal property named in said act, owned by each such person, which value shall be the true cash value, and shall constitute the assessed valuation of the several items of property therein described. It is also provided that each county clerk, immediately upon the receipt of such statements, shall make an abstract of the same and forward it to the office of the secretary of state on or before the second Monday in September.

Chapter 79, laws of 1875, provides that whenever any town, village or city clerk shall fail in any year to return to the county clerk, within the time fixed by law, the statement required by the law of 1869, it shall be the duty of the county clerk of the county to send a messenger to such town, village or city so delinquent, to procure the statement required by said act; and that said messenger shall be entitled to a compensation of three dollars per day, and to a traveling fee of ten cents for each mile necessarily traveled in the discharge of such duty, to be paid from the county treasury, and charged to the town, city or village so delinquent. The act also provides that whenever the county clerk of any county shall fail to discharge the duty required by said chapter 106, before the second Monday in October in any year, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State to dispatch a messenger to such county to procure the statistics so required, and said messenger shall also be entitled to a compensation of three dollars per day and ten cents per mile for actual travel in the discharge of such duty, to be paid from the state treasury and be made a special tax against such county, such tax to be collected and returned in the same manner that other state taxes are collected and paid into the state treasury.

Under the operation of these acts returns have been received from all of the counties of the state, and a condensed statement of the information contained therein will be found in Appendix "C."

The average values of the principal items of property returned are as follows: Horses, $38.47 each; mules and asses, $41.20; neat cattle, $10.93; sheep and lambs, $1.46; swine, $2.56. The average value of farming lands, as shown by these abstracts of assessment is $7.35 per acre.

By the returns made to this office by registers of deeds, under chapter 210, laws of 1873, as amended, it appears that the average value of real estate sold was $14.53 per acre. The average assessed value of the same lands, according to the same returns, was $6.77 per acre. The average value of village and city lots sold was $557.94; and the average assessed value of the same $300.21.

The following table exhibits the total valuation of personal property and real estate for the past six years, according to such abstracts; and also the number, total valuation and average value of the different classes of property for the years 1876 and 1877:

1 Decrease. 2 Increase.

The unquestionable fact that the property of the state is in general valued too low by assessors, and also the circumstance that a considerable portion of property, not exempt by existing laws, appears to escape taxation entirely, have been frequently referred to in the reports of this office. It must be said, however, that the matter is one respecting which it is much easier to find fault, than to devise a reasonably perfect remedy. The law, in theory, seems to be as complete as can be expected, and the difficulty lies almost wholly in its execution. The result, however, undoubtedly is that the burdens of taxation are not as equally distributed on a property basis as would be desirable. Whether a practicable remedy can be devised that will prevent this, is a question that has more than once occupied the attention of the legislature within a few years past, and yet the difficulty does not appear to have been satisfactorily solved.

It would seem that any further legislative action that may be needed relative to the matter should be mainly of such a character as to secure a reasonably strict compliance with the provisions of existing laws on the subject. The whole matter is one well worthy of careful legislative consideration.

And in connection with this brief article on assessment, it is deemed proper to add the recommendation that the laws of the state exempting certain property from taxation be so amended as to provide for the exemption of the implements of mechanics and laboring men to a certain amount. This would seem to be only fair and reasonable in view of other exemptions made, and of the circumstance too that a large amount of personal property belonging to those much better able to pay taxes than the classes referred to, unquestionably escape taxation through the impracticability which appears to exist, of securing a full and strict compliance with the assessment laws.

The report of last year contains a statement of all property exempt from taxation in the state. This was obtained under the provisions of chapter 183, Laws of 1875, which act is not in force the present year, having expired by its own limitation. The object of the law appears to have been accomplished in securing full returns relative to such property.

RAILROADS.

The general railroad law of the state—Chapter 119, Laws of 1872—provides that every railway company shall make an annual report to the stockholders, of its operations during the year ending on the 31st day of December, which report, it is provided, shall be verified by the affidavit of the secretary, treasurer and superintendent of the corporation. It is also provided that a copy of such report shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. This act was passed prior to the passage of the law providing for the appointment of railway commissioners. It is believed that since the passage of the latter act, and its amendments, there has been no real necessity for requiring a report to be made to this office, and that it would be best to repeal the provision relating to such report, thus leaving the entire matter under the supervision of the railway commissioner.

As said commissioner prepares and publishes an annual report relative to railway matters, it is not deemed necessary to publish herein anything not essential to a strict compliance with the law. For this purpose tabulated statements are given, which will be found in appendix "D."

The following railroad companies have been incorporated according to the provisions of the law referred to, since the date of the last report from this office:

Beef River Valley Railroad Company.

Fond du Lac, Wausau and Lake Superior Railway Company.

Forest Home Railroad Company.

STATISTICS OF TAXES.

Each town, city and village clerk in the state, is required by chapter 150, general laws of 1872, to make out and transmit annually to the county clerk of his county, a statement showing separately the taxes levied therein, and the purposes for which the same were levied. It is also, by the same chapter, made the duty of the county clerk to transmit an abstract of the same to the secretary of state on or before the first day of January next after having received such statement from city, town and village clerks. The same law also requires the secretary of state to make a condensed statement of the abstracts thus received, and include the same in his annual report.

According to the provisions of chapter 43, laws of 1874, if any town clerk fails to make the returns referred to, it becomes the duty of the county clerk to send a messenger to procure them at the expense of the town ; and if any county clerk fails to send the abstract required to be sent by him, it becomes the duty of the secretary of state to send a messenger to procure the same at the expense of the county. Chapter 54, laws of 1876, is substantially a reënactment of chapter 43, laws of 1874, with the additional provision that all costs and expenses incurred by county clerks in obtaining these returns shall be paid back into the town, city or village treasury by the delinquent clerk, or be deducted from his salary by the proper treasurer ; and that all costs and expenses incurred by the secretary of state in procuring said returns from counties, shall be paid back into the county treasury by the county clerk, or be in like manner deducted from his salary by the treasurer of the county.

Under the operation of these laws, returns have been received from all the counties in the state.

The total tax levied in the state for the year 1876, was, according to these returns, $8,097,435.00. The aggregate of local valuation, as shown by the same returns was, $364,729,328.00. The rate of taxation was therefore 2.22 on the dollar. For detailed information see appendix "E."

The total amount of taxes levied, and the purposes for which the various town and county taxes were collected, are shown in the following tables:

STATISTICS OF INDEBTEDNESS.

Each county, town, city and village clerk in the state is required by chapter 110, general laws of 1872, to make a statement, whenever requested to do so by the secretary of state, showing fully and completely the financial condition of such county, town city or village; giving the bonded indebtedness thereof and the purposes for which the same was incurred, together with the accrued interest thereon remaining unpaid, and all other forms of indebtedness. The practice under this provision has been to require such returns annually. The information contained in these statements will be found in appendix "F."

The indebtedness of cities, towns, villages and school districts is shown by the following statement:

All other indebtedness.....	128,056 51
Total indebtedness.....	$2,938,531 46

Returns have been received from all of the counties in the state, and show an aggregate indebtedness of $9,671,459.56. The returns last year showed an aggregate of $13,277,379.79. The real indebtedness in 1876, was, however, only $10,696,078.34, the city debt of Milwaukee having been by mistake included in the return of county indebtedness, as well as in that of the city.

AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

Chapter 38, laws of 1874, provided, that it should be the duty of each assessor in the state, at the time of making the annual assessment of property, to ascertain the whole number of acres of wheat, oats, corn, barley, rye, hops and tobacco then growing in his town, and to make duplicate certificates thereof, one of which he was required to file in the office of the clerk of the town; and it was made his duty to forward the other to the county clerk of his county on or before the first day of July of the year in which such certificates were made.

By the same act, the county clerk was required to forward to the secretary of state on or before the fifteenth of July, a certificate showing the aggregate number of acres of each of said products in his county, as ascertained and compiled from the certificates of the assessors.

By chapter 224, laws of 1877, section 1, the foregoing act was amended so as to read as follows :

“ It shall be the duty of the assessors of each town in this state, at the time of making the annual assessment of property, to ascertain the whole number of acres of each kind of farm products and timber, to-wit : wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, flax seed, the number of bushels of clover seed, cultivated grasses, potatoes, roots, apples, cultivated cranberries, hops, tobacco, and timber, then growing in his town, and make duplicate certificates thereof, one of which he shall file in the office of the town clerk of his town, and the other with the clerk of the board of supervisors of his county, on or before the first day of July of the same year.”

It will be noticed that the requirements are not very plain. The views respecting the act entertained by this office will appear from the following extract taken from the instructions prepared for assessors, and published with the last compilation of the assessment laws :

“ The meaning of some portions of the amendatory act is not very clear, but assessors should comply as nearly as possible with its requirements. While the phraseology used is to some extent inaccurate, it is believed that the intention was to have the number of acres given of the various products, except clover seed, where the number of bushels is required. The blank to be used by assessors has been prepared in accordance with this view. It is true, indeed, that the words ‘ number of bushels,’ as used in the act, appear to apply to other enumerated articles as well as clover seed, and in strictness of language these words do so apply. The impracticability, however, of determining in bushels the quantity of some of the products named, relative to which, in this view of the case, the words are used, leads to the conclusion that these words must be limited to the one item of cloverseed, to which they immediately relate, and that only the number of acres of other products is to be given.

An amendment to the law, making its provisions more accurate and harmonious, will doubtless be adopted at the next session of the legislature."

Details of returns received will be found in appendix "G."

The following statement shows the aggregates of returns received under the provision of the foregoing laws since 1874:

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

In view of the interest that attaches to these societies, and the fact that the state has frequently aided them by appropriations, it is thought proper to give, in connection with a reference to the returns made by county societies, a brief history of the legislation on the subject, and to refer to the State Agricultural Society, and to the Northern Wisconsin Agricultural and Mechanical Association, to such an extent as the space proper to be occupied in this report will permit.

The first step towards the formation of an association for the advancement of agricultural interests was taken in 1846. Very little, however, was accomplished. In 1851 the matter was again revived, and the Wisconsin State Agricultural Society was organized.

Chapter 402, general laws of 1852, appropriated to the society the sum of $500, to be expended in the manner provided in said act.

Chapter 5, general laws 1853, declared said society a body corporate, and prescribed its rights and duties.

Chapter 70, general laws of the same year made an annual appropriation of $1,000 to said society, to continue until such time as the legislature should otherwise direct.

Chapter 40, general laws of 1854, increased the appropriation to $3,000 annually.

The laws in force on the subject at the time of the adoption of the revision of 1858, became chapter 80 of the revised statutes. This chapter was repealed by chapter 14 of the extra session of 1862, and it does not appear that from this time until 1873, the society received any direct appropriation from the state.

Chapter 74, laws of 1868, made provision for the publication of the society's transactions, and the publications made since that time have been at the expense of the state. The present law on the subject is chapter 243, laws of 1874.

Chapters 90 of 1873, 324 of 1874, 159 of 1875, 86 of 1876, and 243 of 1877, appropriate each two thousand dollars to the society, and the law of 1875 provided for furnishing stationery upon the order of the secretary.

The Northern Wisconsin Agricultural and Mechanical Association was incorporated by chapter 413, private and local laws of 1871, but seems to have received no direct aid from the state until 1875. By chapter 102 of the laws of that year an appropriation of one thousand dollars was made in its favor. Chapter 226, laws of 1876, provided for printing annually the transactions of the society, and chapter 208, laws of 1877, appropriated to it one thousand dollars.

Chapter 74, general laws of 1856, provided for the organization of county societies, and the payment to each of $100 annually on its complying with the requirements of law.

This act was repealed in 1858, and chapter 53 of that year, relating to the same subject, was enacted.

The last named act, as amended by chapter 38, general laws of 1859, and chapter 8, general laws of 1861, is still in force, and it is provided by these acts that all societies complying with the prescribed conditions shall be entitled to one hundred dollars each, payable out of the state treasury.

Chapter 164, general laws of 1867, provides for sending to this office the names of the officers of county agricultural societies.

Chapter 309, laws of 1875, makes an annual appropriation of one hundred dollars to each industrial society holding an annual fair and complying with the other conditions prescribed in the act. It limits also the number of such societies.

Chapter 95, general laws of 1870, exempts from taxation the property of agricultural associations described in said act.

The total number of county agricultural societies and industrial associations which reported to this office for 1875, was 53; for 1876, 47.

For details, reference is made to appendix "I."

The aggregate receipts and disbursements, as shown by last reports, were as follows:

REAL ESTATE SOLD.

By the provisions of chapter 210, laws of 1873, as amended by chapter 311, laws of 1874, all registers of deeds in the state are required to make out and transmit to the secretary of state, on or before the first day of September in each year, a short detailed statement, in tabular form, of all sales of real estate made and recorded in their respective counties during the preceding year, showing the date of the conveyance, the description of the land sold, the consideration stated in the deed, and the assessed value of the property as shown by the last assessment roll.

It is also provided in the same act, that the secretary of state shall compile the information obtained from such statements for the use of the state board of assessors, and that he may, if he thinks proper to do so, include a condensed statement of the same in his annual report. Returns having been received from all the counties, such condensed statement has been prepared for this report, and is given in appendix "H."

In the returns of real estate sold, made to this office by county clerks, the assessed valuation was often omitted or obscurely written. In other instances the considerations in deeds were not accurately stated. In still others the number of acres was not given. In all such cases, as in those of quit-claim and tax-titles, the descriptions have been wholly omitted in order to secure truthful averages of assessed valuation and consideration per acre. The table given in appendix "H." will, therefore, to this extent, fall short of showing the whole amount of land actually sold in each county during the fiscal year.

MARRIAGES, BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

The total number of marriages, births and deaths reported to this office for the year ending December 31, 1876, was as follows:

Marriages	9,548
Births	6,556
Deaths	1,180

Reports were received from every county in the state excepting Douglas, but many of them were manifestly incomplete. A detailed statement of them is given in appendix "K." This subject will be referred to under the heading of State Board of Health and Vital Statistics.

ELECTIONS.

Tabular statements are given in appendix "M." showing the whole number of votes cast at the general election held on the 7th day of November, A. D. 1876, for electors of president and vice-president of the United States, for members of congress for the several congressional districts in the state, and for and against amending the constitution of the state in relation to savings banks.

Appendix "M." also shows the number of votes cast on the 3d day of April, A. D. 1877, for associate justice of the supreme court of the state to succeed William P. Lyon, whose present term will expire on the first Monday in January, 1878, and for judges in the first and eighth judicial circuits of the state, to succeed John T. Wentworth in the first circuit, whose present term will expire on the first Monday in January, 1878, and to fill a vacancy in the eighth circuit, caused by the resignation of Judge H. L. Humphreys.

In the year 1876, a compilation of the election laws of the state with suitable forms and instructions was prepared in accordance with the provisions of chapter 243, laws of 1874, and distributed among town and county officers. This was the first compilation made since 1868, and it was thought that no other would be needed until after the completion of the revision of the statutes, which was then being prepared.

The passage, however, by the legislature of 1877, of chapter 264, providing for the registration of electors, repealing previous registry laws, and requiring the secretary of state to cause the law referred to, with the general election laws of the state, to be printed in pamphlet form, with suitable forms and instructions, made it necessary to print another compilation, which was distributed among the proper local officers.

CORPORATIONS AND RELIGIOUS SOCIETIES.

A list of corporations organized under the general laws of the state, during the year ending September 30, 1877, and the date of incorporation, together with a list of the religious societies organized within the same time, are given in appendix "L."

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH AND VITAL STATISTICS.

Chapter 366, laws of 1876, entitled "An act to establish a state board of health, to provide for the appointment of a superintendent of vital statistics, and to assign certain duties to local boards of health," provided among other things, that the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, should appoint seven persons, to constitute a state board of health and vital statistics, and prescribed the terms of office of the members of the board. It also specifically prescribed the duties of such board so to be appointed.

In accordance with the provisions of that act, the governor, on the 26th day of May, 1876, appointed the members of the board. These were named in the last report of this office. The term of Dr. O. G. Selden having expired on the 31st day of January, of the present year, Dr. Geo. F. Witter, of Grand Rapids, was appointed as a member.

As the general proceedings of this board are required to be published annually, in a report to be made to the legislature, it is not deemed necessary to refer to its action in this report any further than may be necessary to show what has been done by this office under the provisions of the law above referred to, and which imposed some duties on the office in connection with the general subject to which the law relates.

Section 9 of the act provided that the secretary of the state board of health should be the superintendent of vital statistics, and that under the general direction of the secretary of state, it should be his duty to collect statistics and publish the report required by law relating to births, deaths and marriages.

Chapter 110, of the revised statutes, and amendatory acts, provided for making returns of such statistics to this office, but, as set forth in the various annual reports, it was in general found impracticable to secure a strict compliance with the provisions of law by some local officers and others, on whom devolved the duties of collecting and returning such statistics.

About the end of October last, the board of health issued a circular addressed to the members of the medical profession in the state, urging the importance of attention to the duties prescribed by law in the matter of making returns relative to births and deaths, and on the 1st of November, of the same year, the following circular on the subject was issued from this office :

STATE OF WISCONSIN, SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
MADISON, November 1, 1876.

To Physicians, Clergymen, Justices of the Peace and all others concerned:

The recent passage of a law providing for a State Board of Health, and the entrance of that board upon its duties, which include a study of the vital statistics of the state, seem to make it an appropriate time at which to call your attention to the provisions of chapter 110 of the revised statutes, and amendatory acts, which provide for the collection of such statistics.

These acts require that physicians shall make a report or return to the register of deeds of their respective counties, of all births or deaths occurring in their practice, and in like manner require a report from clergymen, justices and others, of all marriages solemnized by them.

It is the purpose of the law to obtain by means of these returns such records as will be of the highest value, both for sanitary and legal purposes, and it is hoped that you will so appreciate the importance of these objects as to render faithful compliance with its provisions.

Blanks on which to make these returns have been prepared by this office and distributed to the registers of the several counties, from whom you can at any time obtain a sufficient supply, without cost. On these blanks, a sample of which is herewith sent, will be found extracts from the law, which fully explain the duties to be performed thereunder.

As the value of these reports depends to a great extent upon their completeness, you will please fill every blank where it is possible to do so, and also see that names of persons are written plainly and spelled correctly.

Very respectfully,

PETER DOYLE,
Secretary of State.

The returns since received have been more complete, and yet it would seem that additional legislation is needed to secure such a full compliance with the requirements of existing laws on the subject, that these returns may answer the purpose contemplated by the acts requiring them.

As this is, however, a subject that will doubtless receive the careful consideration of the State Board of Health, it is not thought proper or necessary to dwell on it here.

Section 6 of the act creating the Board provides that the sum of three thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be deemed necessary by said Board, is annually appropriated to pay the salary of the secretary, meet the contingent expenses of his office and of the Board, and all costs for printing.

Under this provision the question arose as to whether the amount named should cover the expense of printing the annual report required to be made by said board to the legislature, in January of each year. After a careful examination of the matter, and the opinion of the attorney general having been obtained on the subject, the conclusion was arrived at that it would be proper to treat the report of the board as one coming under the provisions of the general printing law of the state.

The present members of the board are as follows:

	Term Expires.
H. P. Strong, M. D., Beloit.....	January 31, 1878
J. T. Reeve, M. D., Appleton.....	January 31, 1879
Gen. James Bintliff, Janesville.....	January 31, 1880
Solon Marks, M. D., Milwaukee.....	January 31, 1881
John Faville, M. D., Madison.....	January 31, 1882
E. L. Griffin, M. D., Fond du Lac.....	January 31, 1883
Geo. F. Witter, M. D.....	January 31, 1884

For further information on this subject reference is made to the annual report of the State Board of Health.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Chapter 292, laws of 1873, provided for making a geological survey of the state. It was provided that such survey should be completed within four years from the commencement thereof, and an appropriation was made of thirteen thousand dollars per year until its completion.

It was also provided that the chief geologist should each year report to the governor the progress and result of the survey, and that when completed he should make a final report, including the result of the entire survey, accompanied by such drawings and topographical maps as might be necessary to illustrate the same, and by a single geological map showing by colors and other appropriate means, the stratification of rocks, the localities of beds of mineral deposits, and the character and extent of the different formations.

Chapter 171, laws of 1874, made it the duty of the secretary of state to cause the manuscript of the report of the geological survey, which had then been submitted to the governor, to be bound in convenient form for reference, and provided that it should then be kept in the vaults of this office when not in use.

In 1875 there was no legislation on the subject.

Chapter 121, laws of 1876, authorized the printing of twenty-five hundred copies of the complete report, and made the necessary provision for such printing.

The same act authorized the chief geologist in the preparation of his final report, to collate the general geology and the leading facts and principles, relating to the material resources of the state, together with practical suggestions as to the methods of detecting and utilizing the same, so as to constitute the material for a volume suited to the wants of explorers, miners, land owners, and manufacturers, and suitable for the schools of the state, and for those not familiar with the principles of geology. And it was provided that said volume should be written in clear, plain language, with explanations of technical terms, and properly illustrated with maps and diagrams, and that it should be so arranged as to constitute a key to the more perfect understanding of the whole report.

The same act directed that the reports for the years 1873, 1874 and 1875, should be placed in the hands of the chief geologist, to be used in the preparation of his final report.

The act provided also that all the printing should be under the supervision of the chief geologist, and an appropriation not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars, was made for the purpose of carrying into effect its provisions, of which sum it was provided that not more than twelve thousand should be drawn from the treasury in 1876.

In accordance with the terms of said act a contract was made on the 10th day of October, 1876, by the commissioners of printing, on behalf of the state, with Atwood & Culver, of this city, and Seifert, Gugler & Co., of Milwaukee, for the printing of Volume II of the final report, and the preparation of all maps and engravings necessary therefor. A reference to the general terms of this contract will be found in the last report of this office.

The work contracted for is about completed, and will be delivered within a very short time. The volume provided for in section 1, of the act of 1876, will then receive attention.

Chapter 36, of the laws of 1877, amended the act of 1873, by extending the time for completing the survey to five years, instead of four, as named in the original law. This act also increased the appropriation, by extending the time, the law of 1873 having ap-appropriated thirteen thousand dollars a year, to continue until the completion of the survey, as already stated. It may be added that of the last thirteen thousand dollars, only four thousand had been drawn up to the end of the fiscal year.

For some general views relative to the plan of publishing the work, reference is made to the last annual report of the chief geologist.

BANKS.

Chapter 200, private and local laws of 1867, incorporated the Fond du Lac County Savings Institution. By chapter 42, laws of 1873, the name was changed to "Savings Bank of Fond du Lac."

The act of incorporation provided for making a verified report to this office on the first Monday of October in each year, setting forth the condition of the bank on the morning of that day. In view of the distrust that has to some extent existed relative to savings banks, it has been thought advisable to publish such report in full. It will be found in appendix "O." The report of the Whitewater Savings Institution, made to the governor, in pursuance of the requirements of section 10, of chapter 75, of the Revised Statute, is also published in the same appendix. In 1876 a general act relative to the incorporation of savings banks and savings societies was passed, and submitted to the voters of the state at the next general election thereafter, when it was approved by them.

And here it may not be out of place to suggest that the matter of securing a more direct supervision of such banks, by state authority, than that which now exists, may be worthy of legislative attention.

INSURANCE.

In the insurance report of this office for the present year, published in July, reference was made to the fact that an examination of the affairs of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company would be commenced about the 1st of August following.

The examination was commenced on that day, and was participated in by the departments of Massachusetts, New York, Illinois and Maryland, as well as by this department.

The subject of insurance and its supervision having been referred to at some length in the insurance report, it is not deemed necessary to add anything here to what was then said. It is thought advisable, however, to publish in full the report of the examination of the company named, its condition being a matter of general importance to the people of the state. In this connection, it need only be said that the views relative to the company, set forth in the insurance report, were fully substantiated by the examination.

The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. and its Official Examination.

MILWAUKEE, September 1, 1877.

HON. H. L. PALMER, President.

SIR:—In the long and disastrous depression of commercial and industrial interests, with its inevitable entailment of financial embarrassment and loss, and its wide-spread depreciation of equity and cash values so seriously affecting every section of the country, it was not to be expected that the business of life insurance would escape the trying ordeal.

The very magnitude of its interests, the varied character of its trusts, and their vital relation to the peace and prosperity of millions of people, to say nothing of the many unfortunate breaches of good faith and integrity in their observance, have necessarily involved its management in more or less of public criticism and distrust. But, fortunately, the latter contingency has prompted greater vigilance and more economic methods of administration, while the standards of solvency and safety have been subjected to a censorship in all respects more thorough, exacting and circumstantial. Irrespective of existing financial emergencies, however, the sifting process of this regime are as justly and properly applicable to the strong and solvent as to the weak and worthless. And besides, most of the life insurance companies throughout the country have been already brought to its tests, and within a few months at farthest the remainder will have passed examination. Hence, the official examination of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, initiated by the Insurance Department of Maryland, and participated in, on invitation of the managers of the company, by those of Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Illinois and New York, may be as welcome and reassuring to its members and policy holders, as it is satisfactory to those immediately engaged in eliminating the results communicated in this report.

The character and extent of the company's large volume of business, the nature and condition of its investments and other important trusts, involving direct fiscal relations with the people of more than half the states of the Union, the notable fact that its affairs have never till now been officially investigated by any insurance department or state authority, together with the unsettled condition of life insurance and the prevailing distrust in its security as a great public resource and benefaction, were among the very potent reasons for this examination. To its managers, who have sought and desired the most searching investigation, many thanks are due for the promptness and courtesy with which they have contributed every needed facility for its successful accomplishment.

The assets admitted and the liabilities computed by us, the latter including the company's premium reserve, have been made up to July 1st of the present year, and will be found in sufficient detail in the following statement:

LOANS, BONDS, REAL ESTATE, ETC.

The investments of the company in loans on mortgages on real estate amount to $11,546,404.52, being nearly two-thirds of its to tal assets. The examination of this item develops the most vigilant care and faithfulness in determining the validity of titles and the certainty of first liens on the property, as preliminary to the placing of loans. The margin of security appears in every instance to have been largely in excess of that required by the insurance laws of the different states, being in the aggregate nearly four times greater than the whole amount thus loaned.

But in view of the present depreciated value of real estate, and the existing distrust in the solvency of life insurance companies, the Examining Commission have caused a re-valuation of all the real estate on which the company has placed its loans. This re-valuation has been made entirely independent of the company or its managers, by competent and experienced appraisers appointed by the commission in each of the seventeen states in which the loans are distributed. Under this new appraisement the value of the property except in very rare cases, is found to be double or more than double the amount of loans thereon, the gross being $34,254,-405.00, or very nearly three times the amount of such loans.

An examination of the company's books discloses the fact that, as a rule, the interest on these loans has been paid with great promptness, and that in cases of default the mortgage has gone to foreclosure. The accrued interest accounts in this and other departments have been carefully computed, and the results appear in the statement of assets.

The bonds owned by the company have been examined and verified at market rates as of July 1, 1877. These amount in all to $810,420.00.

The company's real estate is the building and land which it occupies in the city of Milwaukee. This has been valued by the commission upon the best information accessible at the sum of $250,000, the same value as fixed by the company, which is nearly $75,000 less than its original cost.

An item of 'Special Real Estate' purchased under foreclosure has been valued by the commission in the same manner, and by the same parties who appraised the real estate mortgaged to the company. The valuation of this class of property amounts to $490,-683.00.

PREMIUM NOTES, OUTSTANDING AND DEFERRED PREMIUMS, ETC.

It will be seen that the premium notes now held by the company amounting to $3,536,965.94, constitute about one-fifth of its entire assets. Prior to 1872, the company accepted somewhat more than one-third of its premiums in that class of securities. These notes have been personally examined and verified, and have been found in every instance to appertain to policies actually in force, and are therefore a secure and valid asset both as against the policies themselves and their computed premium reserves.

In this connection the company's loans on policies in force have been invariably found to cover only a limited portion of the reserve in each case, and are therefore equally secure.

It is also found that all premium notes with accrued interest, if any, thereon, are deducted from policy claims when the latter become payable, such usage being of itself an additional guaranty of the represented value of the notes, as also of the observance of good faith towards all the members of the company.

The outstanding and deferred premium accounts have been examined, item by item, and their correctness fully verified. It is proper to add that no instance appears in which the reserve on any policy is not largely in excess of the premium notes, deferred premiums and accrued interest, when the latter occur; nor is it believed that the notes are in any case in excess of what the company computes as a fair surrender value.

PREMIUM RESERVE, SURPLUS, DIVIDENDS, ETC.

The net premium reserve, computed by the actuaries' table of mortality with interest at four per cent., on policies in force June 30th, amounts to $15,296,249, or about six times the current yearly premium income. As this reserve and other assets of the company are invested at an annual average interest of about eight per cent., the surplus interest beyond the $612,000 required on a four per cent. reserve, this being the standard followed by the company, will probably aggregate for the present year nearly or quite $800,000. On a four and a half per cent. reserve, the standard of Maryland, Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and many other states, the surplus will be measurably increased, showing a total as regards policy holders of about $1,100,000.00 more than the exacting valuation here reported — a fact which will probably receive due consideration by policy-holders resident in those states.

After making all proper allowances for depreciation in values and excluding every asset of questionable worth, the company's present surplus, as regards policy holders, is $2,887,285.62 over a four per cent. reserve; and on a four and a half per cent. reserve, such surplus would be increased to about $3,987,285.62 — an amount which very conclusively exhibits its financial status and ability.

Nearly half of the surplus is annually set apart to be distributed as return premiums or dividends to policy-holders. In consideration of the many possible contingencies liable to occur in any year, such as unusual mortality, unexpected losses, reduction of income, etc., the division of surplus seems to have been as liberal as prudence and equity would warrant — the dividends actually paid on individual policies appearing to be unusually large.

The number of policies in force at the date named was 35,959; covering an aggregate risk of $66,832,062. The premium reserve on these policies has been so carefully computed under our direction by experienced actuaries, not connected with the company, that there can be no question as to its accuracy.

As a matter of information, it may be proper to state here, that in July, 1875, this company assumed the risks of the Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance Company, amounting to $1,400,000, on some twelve hundred lives. Every policy-holder included in this arrangement assented thereto, and every policy so assumed has been valued as of age and date of issue, and its original conditions and all rights accruing in connection therewith have been faithfully observed.

INCOMES, EXPENDITURES, ETC.

The gross income of the company for the first six months of the current year was $1,729,379, the average annual amount for the last five years having been $3,914,568. About five-eighths of the present income accrues from premium receipts, and the balance from interest and rents. As indicating the character of the company's investments and the large interest thereon, it may be mentioned that the interest receipts have been much more than sufficient to pay its death losses and working expenditure for several years past.

A little more than one-tenth of the annual income is absorbed in the working expenditure of the company. With the very moderate compensation paid to agents, and the absolute ownership by the company of forty-one per cent. of its business, on which commissions have been extinguished, the cost of collection is reduced to a minimum ratio. The compensation of agents, including traveling expenses, as well as commissions and salaries, amounts to about eight per cent. of the premium receipts, the commissions alone averaging but a fraction over six and a half per cent. These percentages include old and new business. But the ratio of the entire working expenditure of the company to its gross income shows a higher figure, the increase accruing largely from the wide distribution of its loans, judiciously placed, as we think, in comparatively small amounts, for greater security and more profitable investment, the expenses of travel and examination being thereby greatly enhanced.

A careful examination of the company's books and accounts, covering a period of six or seven years, has shown that only reasonable salaries are paid to its officers and employees, and that no officer receives, directly or indirectly, any compensation whatever, contingent on the business done, or by way of commission on surplus, or in any other manner than by fixed salary established annually by the board of trustees.

CONCLUSION.

It is due the company to state that its books and accounts in every part of its business show a degree of accuracy not easily surpassed. In the actuarial department, the record books and all details of account could not be more satisfactorily kept. The system of accountability and accuracy throughout finds unqualified approval.

It may be said here that during the present year personal examinations have been made of the affairs of all insurance companies organized by or under the laws of the state, and which transact a general business. Reference to the examination of Fire and Marine companies will be found in the insurance report.

And in connection with the subject of insurance it may not be out of place to refer to the passage of chapter 341, laws of 1876, which will take effect on the first Monday of January next. By the provisions of this act, all fees received at this office, including those received from insurance companies, are payable into the state treasury. This does not seem to interfere with the provisions of chapter 56, general laws of 1870, creating the insurance department, except that, under its operation, necessary insurance expenses, within the limits prescribed by said act of 1870, are to be paid from the state treasury in the same manner and under the same provisions of law which relate to the payment of other expenses connected with the office of secretary of state, and that no part of such expense can be paid directly from this office, as was allowable under the previous law.

Some general views relative to the insurance legislation of 1877, and the action of this department in accordance therewith, will be found in the insurance report, page 27, et seq.

PUBLIC LANDS.

During the past two or three years many enquiries have been addressed to this office relative to the public lands granted to this state by the United States, and the use to which such lands have been applied. It is therefore thought proper to give in this report a brief history of the matter. To do more than this and give details would, it is thought, require more space than it is proper to occupy in the report of this office. Hence nothing more has been intended than to give a few essential facts, with such incidental references as may be of assistance to those who may desire to make a full examination of the subject.

The principal grants have been for educational, railway, military road and canal purposes, and these will be referred to in their order, together with the disposition made of the same by the state. Other grants for specific purposes will also be briefly noticed.

GRANTS FOR EDUCATIONAL PURPOSES.

The proceeds of the sale of lands granted for educational purposes form separate funds, which are under the general supervision of the commissioners of school and university lands, such proceeds being invested by them in accordance with the laws of the state, and the income from such investments is applied for the purpose of education, as required by law. An explanation of these funds will therefore necessarily include reference to the lands from the sales of which such funds are mainly formed, and hence the matter will be treated of in that order.

TRUST FUNDS.

The principal trust funds of the state now under the supervision of the commissioners are: The School Fund, University Fund, Normal School Fund, Agricultural College Fund and Drainage Fund, all of these, except the last, being used to advance educational interests. These funds embrace all that arise in whole or in part from the sale of public lands in which the state has a direct and permanent interest. The St. Croix and Lake Superior Railway Trespass Fund is briefly explained at the proper place.

SCHOOL FUND.

This fund will be fully explained by reference to the following provisions of the constitution and laws of the state. Section two of article ten of the constitution provides as follows:

"The proceeds of all lands that have been or hereafter may be granted by the United States to this state for educational purposes (except the lands heretofore granted for the purposes of a university) and all moneys and the clear proceeds of all property that may accrue to the state by forfeiture or escheat, and all moneys which may be paid as an equivalent for exemption from military duty, and the clear proceeds of all fines collected in the several counties of any breach of the penal laws, and all moneys arising from any grant to the state where the purposes of such grant are not specified, and the five hundred thousand acres of land to which the state is entitled by the provisions of an act of congress, entitled, 'an act to appropriate the proceeds of the sale of public lands and to grant pre-emption rights,' approved the fourth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and forty-one, and also the five per centum of the net proceeds of the public lands to which the state shall become entitled on her admission into the union (if congress shall consent to such appropriation of the two grants last mentioned) shall be set apart as a separate fund, to be called the school fund, the interest of which, and all other revenues derived from the school lands, shall be exclusively applied to the following objects, to wit:

"1. To the support and maintenance of common schools in each district, and the purchase of suitable libraries and apparatus therefor;" and,

"2. The residue shall be appropriated to the support and maintenance of academies and normal schools and suitable libraries and apparatus therefor."

The lands of which the proceeds constitute this fund are the sixteenth section of each town in the state, and the five hundred thousand acre tract above referred to, and which was granted in 1841. To this there was added, by section seven of chapter 125, laws of 1856, seventy-five per cent. of the proceeds of the sales of the swamp and overflowed lands, after deducting the expenses incident to the sale, and all of the purchase money of the lands selected by or under authority of this state in lieu of swamp and overflowed lands sold or otherwise disposed of by the United States since the passage of the act approved September 28, 1850.

In 1857, twenty-five per cent. of the proceeds of the sale of swamp lands, which, under the act of 1856, formed a part of the School Fund, was transferred to the Normal School Fund, and by chapter 67 of the general laws of 1858, fifty per cent. of the proceeds of such sales was set apart for a drainage fund, thus leaving only twenty-five per cent. for the School Fund.

In 1865, this remaining twenty-five per cent. was transferred to the Normal School Fund, it being provided, however, that the School Fund should be credited with one-fourth of the income of the former fund until the income of the latter should reach the sum of two hundred thousand dollars. This latter provision was, however, repealed by chapter 29 of the general laws of 1870.

The foregoing are the sources from which the School Fund has been formed. The present amount of such fund is $2,596,361.07.

In addition to this there is levied annually on the taxable property of the state, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 79, general laws of 1866, the sum of $7,088.66, being seven per cent. on $101,262.33, the amount of the five per cent. fund which was withheld by the United States government in its settlement with this state, as a set off to an equal amount for which the territory of Wisconsin became responsible on account of the Rock river canal lands, which will be explained hereafter.

The total number of acres of land received under the provision above referred to was about 1,460,000, and the number of acres still unsold is 214,914.61.

For more detailed information, reference is made to the annual reports of the commissioners of school and university lands.

UNIVERSITY FUND.

Section 6, article 10, of the constitution of the state, is as follows:

"Provision shall be made by law for the establishment of a State University, at or near the seat of state government, and for connecting with the same, from time to time, such colleges in different parts of the state as the interests of education may require. The proceeds of all lands that have been or may hereafter be granted by the United States to the state for the support of a university, shall be and remain a perpetual fund to be called the "University Fund," the interest of which shall be appropriated to the support of the State University, and no sectarian instruction shall be allowed in such university."

By an act of congress approved June 12, 1838, there was granted to Wisconsin for the support of a university, two entire townships of land, in all seventy-two sections; and by section 7 of an act entitled "An act to enable the people of Wisconsin territory to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such state into the Union," approved August 6, 1846, there was granted all salt springs, not exceeding twelve in number, with six sections of land adjoining. By an act approved December 12, 1852, congress granted to the state, in lieu of the latter grant, seventy-two sections, making in the aggregate one hundred and forty-four sections, or about 92,160 acres of land.

The proceeds of the sale of this land has formed the University Fund. The amount of such fund at the present time is $223,240.32. The number of acres of land still unsold is 4,367.16.

Though not strictly within the scope of this article, it may be proper to state here that chapter 82, general laws of 1867, appropriated annually for ten years thereafter the sum of seven thousand three hundred and three dollars and seventy-six cents to form a part of the University Fund income; and that chapter 100, general laws of 1872, made an annual appropriation of ten thousand dollars for the same purpose. Both of these acts were repealed by chapter 117, laws of 1876, which provides that there shall be annually levied a tax of one-tenth of a mill on each dollar of taxable property of the state, the tax so levied to form, when collected, a part of the University Fund income. The amount of this tax the present year is $42,359.62.

Lands granted in aid of an agricultural college, which is now connected with the University, will be referred to under the heading "Agricultural College Fund."

NORMAL SCHOOL FUND.

Section 1, of chapter 82, of the laws of 1857, provided that it should be the duty of the commissioners of school and university lands to apportion the income of twenty-five per cent. of the gross proceeds arising from the sale of swamp and overflowed lands granted to this state by an act of congress, entitled "An act to enable the state of Arkansas and other states to reclaim the swamp and overflowed lands within their limits," approved September 28, 1850, to normal institutes and academies as hereinafter provided.

This was the origin of the Normal School Fund.

Chapter 537, general laws of 1865, repealed all existing laws relative to the application and use of swamp and overflowed lands of the state, and the lands selected in lieu of them. It then provided that all the swamp and overflowed lands received by the state from the United States, and all moneys received from the United States in lieu of swamp and overflowed lands, and all moneys received by the state as purchase money for swamp and overflowed lands, including all amounts loaned and invested, and all sums due and to become due, on contracts for the sale of swamp lands, should be divided into equal parts, and constitute two funds, to be known as the Normal School Fund and Drainage Fund. The Normal School Fund now consists of the fund formed in accordance with the provisions of this act.

The amount of this fund at the present time is $985,681.34. The number of acres of swamp lands still unsold, of which the proceeds are applicable to this fund, is 597,219.59.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE FUND.

By an act of congress approved July 2, 1862, entitled, "An act donating land to the several states and territories which may provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and mechanic arts," there was granted to the state two hundred and forty thousand acres of land.

The proceeds of the sale of these lands form the Agricultural College Fund. The use to which this fund is applied is fully set forth in chapter 114, general laws of 1866.

The present amount of the fund is $240,791.90. The number of acres of land still unsold is 49,791.46.

DRAINAGE FUND.

Section 1 of chapter 67, of the general laws of 1858, provided that, for the purpose of carrying out the intention of the of congress, entitled, "An act to grant to the state of Arkansas and other states, the swamp and overflowed lands within their limits," approved September 28, 1850, and for the purposes of enhancing to the purchasers the value of such swamp and overflowed lands as had been or might thereafter be purchased of this state, fifty per cent. of the net proceeds of the sale of the swamp and overflowed lands granted to this state by the act of congress aforesaid, should be, and the same was thereby set apart as a separate fund, to be entitled the "Drainage Fund," which fund should be devoted to the drainage and reclamation of said swamp and overflowed lands.

The law now governing this subject is chapter 537, general laws of 1865, already referred to, and by the provisions of which the swamp lands were equally divided between the normal school fund and drainage fund. The amount belonging to this fund each year, is apportioned by the commissioners of school and university lands, among the several counties of the state, in proportion to the number of acres of swamp and overflowed lands situate in such counties respectively. The moneys so paid are then apportioned to the various towns, and expended by the proper officers in draining and reclaiming swamp and overflowed lands.

The number of acres of land applicable to this fund and still unsold, is 694,577.51.

SALE OF SCHOOL, UNIVERSITY AND OTHER LANDS.

The constitutional provisions of the state on this subject are as follows:

Article 10. Section 7. The secretary of state, treasurer, and attorney general, shall constitute a board of commissioners for the sale of the school and university lands, and for the investment of the funds arising therefrom. Any two of said commissioners shall be a quorum for the transaction of all business pertaining to the duties of their office.

SECTION 8. Provision shall be made by law for the sale of all school and university lands after they shall have been appraised, and when any portion of such lands shall be sold, and the purchase money shall not be paid at the time of the sale, the commissioners shall take security by mortgage upon the land sold for the sum remaining unpaid, with seven per cent. interest thereon, payable annually at the office of the treasurer. The commissioners shall be authorized to execute a good and sufficient conveyance to all purchasers of such lands, and to discharge any mortgages taken as security where the sum due thereon shall have been unpaid. The commissioners shall have power to withhold from sale any portion of such lands, when they shall deem it expedient, and shall invest all moneys arising from the sale of such lands, as well as all other university and school funds, in such manner as the legislature shall provide, and shall give such security for the faithful performance of their duties as may be required by law.

The sale of these lands was commenced in 1849, and has since been continued under the provisions of law.

It is thought proper to give here the principal laws that have been enacted relative to the sale of lands and the investment of funds arising therefrom. Some of these acts are not now in force, but they may be useful to explain the matter of past sales and investments.

These acts have been as follows:

RAILROAD GRANTS.

The report of the railway commissioners for 1874, page 227 et seq., contains a history of the various grants of land to the state for railroad purposes, and of the disposition made of the same by the state up to June 30, 1873. Hence it is not deemed necessary to give a history of the matter here, which should necessarily be a substantial repetition of the information contained in the report referred to.

From that report it appears that the grants in aid of railway enterprises made by the general government to the state were estimated to contain 3,758,436 acres, and that up to June 30, 1873, there had been patented or certified to railway companies 2,153,434 acres.

Since that time there have been patented or quitclaimed lands, amounting in the aggregate to 731,048 acres, as follows:

	No. of Acres.
To North Wisconsin Railway Company, patent dated December 19, 1873	255,994.94
To North Wisconsin Railway Company, patent dated January 2, 1875	76,786.64
To Wisconsin Central Railroad Company, quitclaim dated December 9, 1875	398,266.44

MILITARY ROAD GRANTS.

Fort Wilkins and Fort Howard Wagon Road.

By act of congress, entitled "An act granting lands to the states of Michigan and Wisconsin to aid in the construction of a military road from Fort Wilkins, in Kewenaw county, in the state of Michigan, to Fort Howard, in the state of Wisconsin, approved March 3, 1863, there was granted to the state of Wisconsin every alternate section of public land, designated by even numbers, for three sections in width on each side of said road from the state line to Fort Howard. Such grant was made subject to the conditions specified in said act.

By chapter 478, general laws of 1864, the state accepted said grant, subject to such conditions, and commissioners were appointed to lay out and establish on the most eligible and direct route a wagon road from Fort Howard to such a point on the state line as they might select.

In pursuance of the foregoing act, the commissioners of school and university lands put into market in the year 1867, the first thirty sections of the grant, for the purpose of realizing a sufficient amount to reimburse the state for expenses and damages paid in the location of the road. This having been accomplished, the balance of the land remaining unsold, was, on the 27th day of November, 1871, conveyed to the contractors on said road. The quantity sold was 8,697.64 acres, amounting to the sum of $10,771.40.

The road was completed in the spring of 1870, and the quantity of lands patented to the different contractors for the construction of the road was about 285,000 acres.

Wausau and State Line Wagon Road.

By an act of congress, entitled "An act granting lands to the state of Wisconsin to build a military road to Lake Superior," approved June 25, 1861, there was granted to the state to aid in the construction of a military wagon road from Wausau, Marathon county, following the Wisconsin river as far as Skouowany, and thence on the most feasible and direct route to a point on the state line between the states of Wisconsin and Michigan, in direction to Ontonagon, on Lake Superior, every alternate section of public land, not mineral, designated by odd numbers for three sections in width on each side of said road.

Chapter 533 of the laws of the state for 1865, provided for accepting the grant on the conditions set forth in the acts of congress. From that time until 1875, almost nothing was done towards the building of the road. In the last named year the legislature re-enacted the law of 1865, the time provided in this act for building the road having expired; and in pursuance of the provisions of said act so revived, the government appointed commissioners to survey, locate and construct said road.

In the months of May and June of the year 1876, the commissioners went on and surveyed the route or line of the road, and prepared maps of the location, and transmitted them to the secretary of the interior for his approval, in accordance with the provisions of the acts of congress, with a request that upon filing said maps and approving the same, the secretary would cause the withdrawal from entry of the public lands lying on either side of the road, and described in this act of congress before referred to. The secretary declined to comply with the request and returned the maps of location, stating as his reason that no steps had been taken to definitely fix the route of said road under the act of congress until then (July 1st, 1876), although it was the evident intention of congress that the road should be completed within five years from the date of the approval of the act, and that no satisfactory reason being assigned for the delay of twelve years in taking the initiatory step under the act by which alone the grant attached to specific tracts of land, the delay should be treated as an abandonment of the lands. Hence nothing has been received under the grant.

WISCONSIN RAILROAD FARM MORTGAGE LAND COMPANY.

In the report of the Railway Commissioners, to which reference has already been made, will be found a history of the grant to the above named company. The matter, however, being one of considerable interest at the present time, it is thought proper to give here a brief summary, which will explain the principal points connected with said grant, and the disposal of the same.

During the time that the La Crosse and Milwaukee, and the Milwaukee and Horicon Railroad companies were seeking to construct their roads, many farmers in the state mortgaged their farms to aid the enterprises. Subsequently the Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company became the successor of the La Crosse and Milwaukee railroad company, and the owner of the two lines referred to. It thus succeeded to all the right and title of the La Crosse and Milwaukee railroad company by the provisions of chapter 122, general laws of 1856.

With a view to assist farmers who had mortgaged their farms as stated, the legislature in 1868, by chapter 446 of the private and local laws of that year, appointed commissioners and granted to them in trust certain lands hereinafter referred to, which it was provided should be used for the benefit of said farm mortgagors, as provided in said acts.

The purposes of the acts, will, perhaps, be best understood by giving the preamble thereto. It is as follows:

WHEREAS, Certain owners of farms and other lands in this state mortgaged the same to aid in building the railroads now or recently known as the "La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad," and the "Milwaukee and Horicon Railroad," by reason of which the said mortgagors have suffered great injury; and

WHEREAS, The "Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company," the successors of the above named railroad companies, and the present owners of their lines of railroad, is willing to relinquish in favor of said mortgagors its claims to certain lands donated by congress to aid in the construction of said railroads, and more especially its claims to all and singular the lands to which they are or may be entitled by reason or on account of the building or construction of a railroad from Columbus, in the state of Wisconsin, by the way of Portage City, to Tomah, in said state of Wisconsin, by virtue of an act of congress, entitled "an act granting a portion of the public lands to the state of Wisconsin, to aid in the construction of railroads," approved June 3, 1856, upon the condition that the state of Wisconsin shall relinquish its right to tax the said Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company, or its traffic, for or on account of its being the owner of said lands, as provided by chapter 122, laws of 1856, or the successor to the grantee or donee of said lands so granted by congress to aid in the construction of said railroads; and;

WHEREAS, It is desirable that the said mortgagors should receive all the benefits which they can from such lands, and to that end the legislature of the state of Wisconsin is willing, and does hereby consent and agree that said lands may be used, devoted and applied to and for the use and benefit of the said mortgagors, and to carry out and accomplish the end and purpose aforesaid.

(Then follows the act.)

In September, 1868, the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company quit-claimed to the commissioners herein referred to, for a nominal consideration, all its title and interest to the lands described in the foregoing preamble.

In 1870, a trust deed was executed to said commissioners by the governor for 28,931 acres, being a portion of a list of lands certified to the state in 1863, on account of the grant of 1856, which were on the route of the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad.

In 1871, by chapter 56, private and local laws of that year, the commissioners were declared to be a body corporate, to be known as the Wisconsin Railroad Farm Mortgage Land Company.

In 1871 another trust deed was executed to said company for 39,889 acres, making an aggregate of 68,820 acres received up to the present time. Of this land 50,692 acres have thus far been sold, leaving 18,128 acres still unsold.

The company still claims additional lands from the grant of June 3, 1856, to which reference has been made, under the rights which it acquired, as herein stated, and a suit to enforce this claim is now pending in the circuit court of the United States for the western district of Wisconsin.

The commissioners of the farm mortgage land company report annually to this office, and such report is transmitted to the legislature.

The principal laws relating to the duties of said commissioners are chapter 352, private and local laws of 1869, amendatory of chapter 446, private and local laws of 1868, chapter 195, laws of 1875, also amending the law of 1868, and chapter 84, laws of 1877, extending the time for filing claims, under said act of 1868, until the first day of November, 1877.

MILWAUKEE AND ROCK RIVER CANAL GRANT.

In the year 1836, public attention was directed to the importance of connecting the waters of Lake Michigan with those of Rock river, by means of a canal, and in 1837, a preliminary survey was made. In 1838, the Milwaukee and Rock River Canal Company was incorporated by act of the territorial legislature.

The same year, congress passed an act to grant a quantity of land to the territory of Wisconsin for the purpose of aiding in opening a canal to connect the waters of Lake Michigan with those of Rock river. By this act, there was granted all the land that had not been disposed of in those sections or fractional sections which were numbered with odd numbers on the plats of public surveys within the width of five full sections, taken on each side of the route of said canal. This grant embraced about 139,200 acres.

At the session of the territorial legislature in 1839, a bill was passed providing for the disposal of the lands and making other provisions relative to the matter of constructing the canal.

Without going into details it will be sufficient to say here that from that time until 1848, there was considerable legislation on the subject, but that comparatively little was done in the way of constructing the canal. In the year last named an examination of the matter of the canal lands showed that of the 139,200 acres granted to the state, there had been sold 104,491 acres, and that the proceeds thereof had been paid into the territorial treasury, and expended or remained to be expended in accordance with the provisions of law relating to the subject. The remainder of the grant, about 35,000 acres, became, on the admission of the state into the Union, a part of the five hundred thousand acre tract granted by congress in 1841 for educational purposes, which has been already referred to.

GRANT IN AID OF FOX AND WISCONSIN RIVER IMPROVEMENT.

Public attention was first directed to the matter of the improvement of the Fox and Wisconsin rivers in 1829, and in October of that year a public meeting relative to the subject was held by the inhabitants of Green Bay. In 1833 another meeting was held, and steps were taken towards applying to congress for aid in the matter. In 1839 a survey of the route was made under the direction of the war department by Capt. Cram of the U. S. Topographical Engineers.

In 1846 an act was passed by congress, entitled "An act to grant a certain quantity of land to aid in the improvement of the Fox and Wisconsin rivers, and to connect the same by a canal in the territory of Wisconsin."

This act provided that there should be granted to the state of Wisconsin, on its admission into the Union, for the purpose of improving the navigation of those rivers and constructing a canal to unite them, a quantity of land equal to one-half of three sections in width on each side of the said Fox river and the lakes through which it passes from its mouth to the point where the Portage canal should enter the same, and on each side of said canal from one stream to another, the alternate sections to be reserved to the United States.

It was provided that said lands should be selected under the direction of the governor of the state, and that when the river should be improved and the canal finished they should forever remain a public highway for the use of the government of the United States, free from any toll or charge for the transportation of mails or property of the United States, or persons in their service.

This grant embraced about 318,720 acres, and was accepted by the state in June, 1848. The same year an act was passed providing for the disposal of the lands and the application of the proceeds thereof to the construction of a canal connecting the rivers.

Under this act a board of public works was appointed to take general charge of the matter, in accordance with the provisions of the act. The report of this board made in 1850, showed that up to that time there had been sold of the lands selected under the act of Congress of 1846, 45,891 acres, for the sum of $57,692, and that out of this sum there remained in the treasury, after the payment of all authorized expenditures, $14,304.

Up to this time there had been selected and confirmed to the state, on account of this grant, 131,660 acres, a portion of which was unsaleable, on account of being marshy or otherwise inferior in quality. Of the remainder of the grant made by the terms of the act of 1846, it appeared that a considerable portion had been sold by the United States before the grant to the state took effect. In lieu of these, the governor made a selection of about 60,000 acres from the even or reserved sections, but such selections were not approved.

From this time until 1853, efforts were made by the state to secure the construction of the canal, but for various reasons the work was not as successfully prosecuted as it had been hoped would be done.

In the last named year the legislature passed an act entitled "An act to incorporate an association for the completion of the improvement of the Fox and Wisconsin Rivers," and transferred to the corporation all the right and title of the state to the lands granted in aid of the canal, as well as all the improvements then made. The conditions of the grant will be found by referring to chapter 98, general laws of 1853.

The lands remaining unsold in 1853, and which were granted to the company by the terms of its charter, amounted to about 168,000 acres, which were valued at about $808,000.

In 1854 an act of Congress was passed, authorizing the governor to select the balance of the grant of 1846 to which the state was entitled, and provided how the quantity of land should be ascertained. In 1855 a resolution was adopted by Congress, declaratory of the meaning of the act of 1854.

After the passage of this resolution, the commissioner of the general land office issued a certificate to the governor of the state authorizing the selection of 415,134 acres in the manner prescribed in said certificate.

In 1856, the state granted to the company these lands on the conditions set forth in the act making such grant which is chapter 112, general laws of 1856.

One of these conditions was that within ninety days after the passage of the act, the company should convey by a deed of trust to the trustees to be appointed by the governor with the assent of the directors of the company, all the unsold lands granted to the state in aid of the enterprise, together with all the improvement works and all the property of the company, for the purposes set forth in said deed, which was mainly to secure the prosecution and completion of the work. The company then continued the work of improvement.

By chapter 180 of the general laws of 1860, the time allowed to the company by the act of 1856 in which the improvement was to be completed, was extended to the first day of April, 1863.

In 1865, another act was passed (chapter 535, of that year), extending the time to the 1st of May, 1866.

In February of the last named year, the trustees herein referred to, in execution of the powers contained in the trust deed, and pursuant to a judgment rendered by the circuit court of Fond du Lac county, sold at public sale at the city of Appleton all the works of the improvement, and all the lands granted by congress which were then unsold. In pursuance of existing laws, the purchasers at such sale became incorporated as the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal Company.

The state had, from time to time, represented to congress the importance of assuming control of this improvement as a national work, and in 1866, under instructions from the proper United States authorities, surveys of the Fox and Wisconsin rivers were commenced.

In 1870, congress directed the secretary of war to adopt such a plan for the improvement of the Fox and Wisconsin rivers as should be approved by the chief of engineers, and a board of arbitrators was appointed to effect a settlement with the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal Company for the transfer of all its rights, after taking into account the amount realized from the sale of lands granted to the state for the purpose of aiding the improvement.

This resulted in the transfer by the company to the United States, of all its property on the payment of the amount found due said company being $145,000.

In conclusion it may be said that the grants of land to aid this improvement, made by the general government from time to time, amounted in the aggregate to 683,969 acres, which were disposed of in the manner herein stated.

The direct appropriations by congress for the purpose of the improvement have been as follows:

By an act of July 11, 1870, $100,000; act of March 3, 1873, $300,000; act of June 23, 1874, $300,000; act of March 3, 1875, $500,000.

STURGEON BAY AND LAKE MICHIGAN SHIP CANAL GRANT.

In the report of this office for 1876, a history of this grant was given, and the report of a committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the company engaged in the prosecution of the work for which the grant was made was published. Hence it is not deemed necessary to refer to the matter in detail here. During the past year a small portion of the lands of the company was disposed of under the provisions of chapter 224, laws of 1876.

PROTECTION OF STATE LANDS.

Chapter 46, general laws of 1869, provided, among other things, for the appointment of one or more agents by the governor for the protection of the timber growing on any of the lands granted by congress to aid in the construction of railroads, by act approved June 3, 1856, and which were granted by the state to the St. Croix and Lake Superior Railroad Company, for the purpose of aiding in building a railroad from the River or Lake St. Croix to the west end of Lake Superior and Bayfield.

This act was amended by chapter 75, general laws of 1871, and chapter 335, laws of 1876, but the provision relative to the appointment of agents remains unchanged, and such agents are appointed by the governor in accordance with the provisions of said act.

Chapter 21, general laws of 1871, authorized the commissioners of school and university lands to appoint clerks, not exceeding four in number, for the purpose of protecting the school, university, swamp and overflowed, or any other lands in which the state might have an interest, legal or equitable, and appropriated the sum of $6,000 annually for the payment of such clerks.

Chapter 314, laws of 1876, repealed the foregoing act, and provided for the appointment of such clerks by the governor, the other provisions of the act being substantially the same as those contained in the law of 1871. Chapter 377, general laws of 1865, contains some general provisions on the subject of protecting public lands.

Chapter 104, private and local laws of 1872, provides that the president of the Sturgeon Bay and Lake Michigan Ship Canal and Harbor Company shall have authority to act as agent for the protection of lands granted in aid of said canal, on his complying with the requirements set forth in said act.

These are the existing provisions of law relative to the protection of state lands.

AUDITING AND OTHER DUTIES.

Section 2 of article 6, of the constitution of the state, provides that the secretary of state shall be ex-officio auditor; and section 7, of article 10, provides that he shall be one of the commissioners of school and university lands.

At the time of the adoption of the constitution, the business of the state was comparatively small, and it was doubtless wise to devolve on one officer the performance of several duties rather than to multiply offices, thus leaving very little to be done by the incumbent of each. It may be fairly presumed, too, that the framers of the constitution did not anticipate the rapid development of the state that has since taken place, and hence that they could not at that time, by any ordinary foresight, adequately provide for the full supervision of its constantly increasing financial and other business interests.

Only ten years had elapsed, however, after the adoption of the constitution, when it seems to have become apparent that the duties devolving on this office had increased to such an extent as to render it desirable to attempt devising a plan that might result in lessening to some extent the duties as auditor. At least this may be fairly presumed to have been one of the objects in view in enacting chapter 158, general laws of 1858, providing for the appointment of a comptroller and prescribing his duties.

In 1860, the supreme court, in the case of The State ex. rel. of Crawford vs. Hastings, treasurer, decided the act of 1858 unconstitutional, and also held, in substance, that the duties of secretary of state as auditor were in the nature of a personal trust, and could not be delegated by him.

Subsequently the attention of the legislature was, on one or two occasions, called to the matter through the reports of this office, and the adoption of a constitutional amendment providing for the election of auditor was recommended. In the report for the year 1865,

Hon. Lucius Fairchild referred to this subject, stating that at no distant day the best interests of the state would require the creation of a department having charge only of the financial interests of the state.

In 1870, the legislature passed an act — chapter 56 of that year — providing that the secretary of state should also be ex-officio commissioner of insurance.

The additional duties imposed by this act are continually increasing, and necessarily occupy considerable time, and demand, to a great extent, careful personal attention.

It is believed that from the foregoing statements, without going into details on the subject, it will be apparent that the time is certainly not far distant when the best interests of the state will demand a division of the duties now devolving on this office. Indeed, should such a course be adopted in this regard as would require a constitutional amendment, it would seem that steps should soon be taken in that direction. And here it may not be considered out of place to make an observation or two of such a character as the experience of the past few years has suggested, relative to the method of accomplishing the result referred to, in such a way that the interest of the state may be best subserved. At first sight it would perhaps appear desirable to establish a separate insurance department; or it might appear advisable to unite the duties of railway and insurance supervision, as either of these courses could be adopted without a constitutional amendment, and should there appear to be no better way, one of these may be worthy of consideration. There would seem to be reasons, however, for having the important duties of insurance supervision performed by an officer elected by the people, and immediately responsible to them, rather than by a person appointed for that purpose, and hence not so directly responsible, and therefore that some elective state officer should be ex-officio commissioner of insurance; and it may be added that the same principle is believed to be true of railway and other important interests that may be considered of such a nature as to demand state supervision at all.

It may be said, too, as already remarked in substance, that even previous to the passage of the act of 1870, relative to insurance supervision, many were of the opinion that it would be desirable to have a separate auditing department, and that there appeared to exist a growing necessity for it. The same seems to be the case still.

The duties of auditing are among the most important, and the financial interests of the state are increasing so rapidly, that it is safe to presume that in the near future an officer having charge of such interests should have few, if any, other duties requiring his attention. The annual disbursements from the general fund are now considerably in excess of a million of dollars annually, the payments ranging from very small to comparatively large amounts. Many accounts require considerable examination to determine their accuracy, and all should of course receive careful consideration before any payment is made.

A general supervision of the revenues of the state also requires not a little time and attention. In addition to this, there are necessarily many duties to be performed relative to the various trust funds. And it may not be improper to suggest here, that, in view of the constantly increasing expenditure by the state in aid of the different educational, benevolent, and correctional institutions, it may soon be a matter worthy of consideration, whether it may not be advisable to have all details relative to the payment of appropriations for these purposes made subject to the careful examination and audit of some central auditing office, and whether all such payments should not be made directly from the state treasury.

Without at all reflecting on the present management in this regard, it may be said that there would seem to be some advantages to the state from the adoption of the course here suggested, which it is believed will be apparent from even a casual examination of the subject. It would doubtless be desirable, for the sake of convenience, to have suitable provisions for the payment, by the proper local officer, of small bills, but it might be arranged that bills exceeding a certain amount, to be determined by the legislature, should, before being paid, be examined and audited in the manner stated. This would seem to be the more necessary in view of the policy adopted by the state as set forth in the law of 1876, providing for the investment of state funds, thus rendering it desirable to retain as much money as possible for such purpose until actually needed, instead of paying the same in large amounts to local officers.

And in this connection it may be proper to briefly refer to the management of school and university and other public lands under existing laws and the provisions of the constitution, and to suggest that if there existed the office of auditor, the person filling such office might, perhaps, properly be required to act as ex officio commissioner of said lands, thus placing such matters under the control of one officer. This would seem to be appropriate in view of the fact that the management of these lands necessarily involve transactions of a financial character.

The principal portion of the lands that were granted to the state and that have been under the control of the commissioners of school and university lands, has been sold, and the business of the land office arising from such sales will necessarily greatly diminish hereafter.

It is believed that with this condition of the matter, the business could be more economically and efficiently conducted under the direct management of one officer than can be done under the present arrangement with a divided responsibility, and in view, too, of the fact that owing to a pressure of other duties no commissioners can possibly devote any great degree of personal attention to the details of such business.

Should the arrangements suggested be at any time carried into practice, the result would be, that the secretary of state would perform the duties proper of that office, including the supervision of printing and publication, election and assessment matters, the keeping of all required records, and the collection of statistics provided for by law, and also act as commissioner of insurance, while the auditor would have general charge of the financial affairs of the state, and also act as commissioner of public lands. It may be added here, that there is a growing want for much more complete statistical information relative to the various interests of the state than is now provided for, and that the time is not far distant when such information will be very desirable, if not essentially necessary to intelligent legislation respecting those interests. It is thought that this arrangement would not necessarily result in any increase of expense, as a greater degree of economy would doubtless be secured in some of the matters to which reference has been made, than appears practicable under the present system.

This is not suggested as the best method that may be devised for accomplishing the purpose herein referred to, but only as one way that may be worth considering. It is not deemed necessary, however, to elaborate the subject, but it has been thought proper to thus briefly refer to it as one that may be soon worthy of the attention of the legislature. And, in conclusion, it may be said that it has not been intended in writing this article to take the position that there is any immediate or pressing necessity existing relative to the matter referred to, or requiring a division of the duties of the office, but the general interests and business of the state will doubtless make this necessary at no distant day. And, as has been remarked, should such a course be thought advisable, as would require a constitutional amendment, which would necessarily involve a delay of some years, it would seem that the subject is one which should receive early attention.

It may not be improper to add, that while the policy of creating offices not essentially necessary, can hardly be condemned in too severe terms, yet it is believed that wise economy and true policy will sanction a course that would so distribute duties as to enable the officer having charge of a department to give personal attention to all matters of particular importance, and also exercise a direct personal supervision over all details of office work.

It may be added, too, that in almost every other state of the Union, certainly in all the principal ones, there exists the office of auditor. In some cases, other duties, especially those of insurance supervision, are coupled with the duties of such office, but in general it is an entirely separate department.

This matter was briefly referred to in the insurance report of the present year, page 8, to which, for history of the method of insurance supervision in the several states, the reader is referred.

UNSETTLED CLAIMS.

In the report of this office for 1874, and again in 1875, reference was made to the fact that bills for printing done in Europe for the commissioner of immigration, in the year 1873, had been received and filed. It was also stated that there was not a sufficient sum left of the appropriation for 1873, properly applicable to that purpose, to pay such bills in full, the unpaid balance being $1,188.87. This balance seems to be still unpaid, there having been no legislative action on the subject. For a full explanation of the matter, reference is made to the report of 1874, page 43. It is recommended that an appropriation be made for the payment of the balance above stated, it appearing to be equitably due, notwithstanding that all the requirements of law may not have been fully complied with in ordering such printing.

In June, 1875, a bill for five thousand dollars, made out in the name of Stevens & Sloan, was presented by B. J. Stevens, of this city, the bill being for "retainer, preparing brief, attendance on supreme court at the winter term of 1873-4, and going to Washington to argue case, in the case of Schulenberg and others, plaintiffs in error, against Hammon, defendant in error, and Schow, plaintiff in error, against same defendant in error."

These cases were to enforce payment for trespass committed on the lands of the St. Croix and Lake Superior Railroad grant, which was granted to the state in 1856, to aid in the construction of railroads, and the protection of which was provided for by chapter 46, general laws of 1869, and amendatory acts. The title of the state to the lands appears to have been also involved, and it should, perhaps, be added that the decision was favorable to the state.

The bill for services did not seem to come directly within the provision of the act of 1869, above cited, or others amendatory thereof, which provide for the payment of expenses incurred relative to the protection of said lands; neither was it certified to or approved by the governor, the claimant taking the position that under the law, the duty of determining the amount proper to be paid for such services, and auditing a bill therefor, devolved on this office.

After a careful examination of the matter, and legal advice having been obtained, the conclusion was arrived at that this could not properly be done, and that payment could not be made.

Subsequently, and after the passage of chapter 335, laws of 1876, the subject was again examined at the request of the applicant, and the same conclusion was again arrived at. In examining the matter, it did not become necessary to attempt determining whether or not the amount charged was a reasonable one, it appearing as already stated, that there existed no legal right on the part of this office to determine the sum proper to be paid in that or similar cases.

It is but proper to add, that to the bill as presented, there were attached statements of several prominent members of the legal profession, setting forth that, in their opinion, the charge made was a reasonable one. The papers relative to the subject will be found on file in this office.

During the past year, a claim was made by the Mineral Point Railway Company for the refunding of $3,431.74, which, it was claimed, had been paid by mistake of said company as a license fee for 1876, in excess of the amount required by law. It was stated that the sum of $4,413.48, being four per cent. on the gross earnings of 1875, had been paid, while under the provisions of chapter 97, laws of 1876, the amount payable was only $981.74. From an examination of the case, the claim appeared to be correct, and the facts appeared to have been as alleged by the company. It was thought, however, that the amount claimed could not properly be refunded without an appropriation being made by the legislature for that purpose, or, at least, a resolution being adopted authorizing payment to be made. The license fee of the company for the present year, amounting to $1,048.25, is still unpaid, which deducted from $3,431.74, leaves a balance of $2,383.49, to which it is believed the company is justly entitled.

The foregoing include all the claims made up to the present time, which appear to require legislative action.

STATE FINANCES.

In the last report of this office, reference was made to the constitutional and legal provisions which relate to the providing of revenues to defray the expenses of the state, and the fact that appropriations made by the legislature in excess of the estimates for expenditures sometimes render it necessary to temporarily use some of the trust funds, was also referred to.

Hence it need only be said here, that similar causes will doubtless make it necessary to use some of such funds for the payment of general expenses during the last quarter of the present year, the balance in the general fund on the 30th of September having been only $6,014.40, and it not being probable that more than a few thousand dollars will be received into the treasury during the quarter.

And it may be proper to say here that appropriating in excess of the estimates has not been the only cause of the small balance in the general fund at the close of the fiscal year. Owing to the great depression of business that has existed for some time past, the receipts from railway and insurance companies, and from some minor sources, have been less than the estimates of such receipts.

By referring to the Senate Journal of 1876, page 630, it will be seen that the receipts from railway companies for the present year were estimated at $400,000, while the actual receipts have been only $380,726.26, including the sum of $2,904.06 due from the preceding year. The receipts from taxes to be paid by insurance companies were estimated at $65,000, while the actual receipts up to the close of the fiscal year have been only 47,113.46, and the amount to be received during the coming quarter will be very inconsiderable.

It will thus be seen that the aggregate receipts from the sources named, after deducting the amount of railway license fee due from the preceding year, as above stated, has been $40,064.34 less than the estimated receipts from such sources made by the legislature of 1876, and which at the time seemed quite reasonable. The receipts from miscellaneous sources have also been somewhat less than the estimates made at the same time. Besides this, chapter 245, laws of 1877, provided for apportioning to the several counties in which the lands owned by the West Wisconsin Railway Company were located, on the condition set forth in said acts, so much of the license fees received from said company as should amount to a sum not exceeding two and a half cents per acre for the lands of said company, which were exempt from taxation in such counties. The amount paid under this act was $12,826.16.

In connection with the matter of the reduced receipts from insurance companies, it may be proper to say that this has been in part owing to the reduction in business transacted by fire and marine companies, and in part to the fact that the number of life companies licensed the present year has been considerably less than usual. Besides this, competition for business among fire companies has been so great that rates have been largely reduced, thus rendering the gross receipts on which taxes are paid, much less than would otherwise have been the case. It may be added that when the estimates were made, there was in force a requirement of law that each fire and marine company should, on entering the state, pay five hundred dollars as a license fee for the first year, which provision was repealed in 1876. It is believed that the passage of chapter 182, laws of 1877, a reference to which will be found on page 27 of the insurance report of the present year, will result in providing at least a small additional revenue from this source.

It is hoped, and may be fairly presumed, that hereafter there will not be such a falling off from estimates carefully made, as the past year has been to a great extent, one of unusual business depression. It would seem as if the receipts from railway companies the coming year may even be considerably in excess of the estimates, on account of the large crop the present season, and the consequent increase of business.

And in connection with the subject of revenues it may be proper to add that under the operation of chapter 341, laws of 1876, establishing the salaries of state officers, there will be some receipts into the treasury from fees hitherto applicable under existing laws to payment of such officers. There will also doubtless be some revenues from the investment of funds provided for by chapter 340, of laws of the same year hereafter referred to.

A reference to the Senate Journal of the present year, page 437, will show that appropriations amounting to $60,500 were made by the last legislature in excess of the estimates on which the tax of 1876 was based; and it was provided that said amount should be levied with the tax of 1877. This will, however, not be collected or paid into the treasury until January or February next. The same is true of a balance amounting to $30,000 of an appropriation made to the Institute for the Blind by chapter 342, laws of 1877, but not collectable, under the provisions of said act, with the tax of that year, nor payable until the present year. Some smaller appropriations in excess of the estimates were also made, the amounts of which will be found under the appropriate headings in this report.

In accordance with the provisions of chapter 153, general laws of 1869, such a sum was added the present year to the tax authorized by the legislature as appeared to be sufficient with said tax so provided for, to meet all proper demands on the treasury, within the limitations of said act. The amount so added, and the estimates on which it was based, will be found in the proper place in the report.

Should there be no extraordinary appropriations by the legislature at the next session, it is believed that the tax levied, with the amounts receivable from other sources of revenue, will be sufficient to meet all necessary expenditures, payable from the general fund, during the coming year.

The matter of the temporary use of some of the trust funds for the payment of general expenses, was referred to in the report of last year, to which for a statement of the causes that, under some circumstances, make it necessary to occasionally use of such funds, reference is made.

It need only be said here that should this use at any time result in a loss of interest to any such trust fund, and thus reduce the income, it would seem to be only equitable that the legislature should make such an appropriation from the general fund as would be equal to such loss. It will not, of course, be understood that the foregoing remarks are at all intended to sanction the use of such funds for general purposes under ordinary circumstances. Such circumstances, however, may arise in the future, as they have arisen in the past, which will render it necessary to to adopt such a course, to prevent the impairment of the credit of the state. It is hoped, however, that this will not be the case, and the attention of the legislature is respectfully invited to a consideration of the matter of authorizing each year the levy of such an amount of tax as will be sufficient to meet all ordinary contingencies and thus prevent the existence of this necessity.

During the fiscal year that has just closed, the sum of $39,692.00 of the trust funds was loaned to school districts, under the provisions of chapter 42, general laws of 1871, and amendatory acts. The amounts annually due on these loans are collected under the provisions of the acts named and those of chapter 60, laws of 1873.

In addition to this amount, there has been loaned to the town of Pine Valley, under the provisions of chapter 76, laws of 1877, the sum of $3,000, to the county of Racine, under the provisions of chapter 107, laws of 1876, $7,500, and to the county of Wood, under the provisions of chapter 144, laws of 1876, $68,500. It is probable that the additional sum of $31,500 will be loaned to Wood county within a short time. The details of disbursements on account of these loans will be found in the appropriate accounts herein.

Chapter 340, laws of 1876, provides for the investment, in bonds of the United States or of this state, of public moneys in the treasury, whenever in the opinion of the lawfully constituted authorities, it may be deemed advantageous to the state to so invest such moneys. This act is to take effect on the first Monday of January, 1878.

It will be seen from another portion of this report that the total amount of state bonds now outstanding is only $14,000. These are, it is believed, held by a few individuals, and none of them are offered in the market. This being the case, and as there is no reasonable probability that there will be any early issue of bonds by the state, it will be seen that practically the investments are limited to United States bonds. This subject, however, having received careful legislative consideration in 1876, it is not deemed necessary to dwell on it here.

In conclusion, it may be said that there seems to be no very specific duty to be performed at the present time under the provision of law requiring the secretary of state, as auditor, to suggest plans for the improvement and management of the public revenues. The matter has been referred to in previous reports, and references to the subject to such an extent as to be considered a compliance with the provision stated, will be found in the foregoing and other articles printed herein, some of which necessarily relate, at least incidentally, to the finances of the state.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Chapter 138, laws of 1877, provides that all notaries public appointed after the passage and publication of that act, shall hold their offices for the term of four years, instead of two, which had been the term under previous laws. In accordance with the act, all commissions issued to notaries, after the tenth day of March last, will continue in force for said term of four years, unless sooner revoked or otherwise determined in the manner provided by law.

The propriety and expediency of publishing in the annual report of this office, a list of all notarial appointments have been duly considered, but it has not appeared advisable to do so. As such appointments are being issued, at least every week, a list of notaries published in the report of any given year, would not of course contain the names of those appointed after the publication of such report, and previous to the publication of the next; and hence would necessarily be incomplete so far as giving the names of all persons duly authorized to act at the time the report might be referred to for such information. Besides this, the act referred to provides that the secretary of state shall deliver to each notary appointed a certificate of such appointment, which certificate shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of the county where such notary resides. Thus there is always a record in each county of all persons authorized to act as notaries in such county, and information as to who are duly qualified to so act can therefore be obtained at any time from clerks of the circuit court, as well as from this office.

In addition to this, it may be stated that such publication would occupy more space in this report than would appear to be proper to use for such information. If the names were published, it would be necessary to give in addition thereto the date of appointment, date of qualification and post office address. Otherwise the publication would be of very little, if any, value whatever.

The foregoing explanation has been thought proper in view of the fact that since the passage of the act referred to, the matter of publishing such appointments has been occasionally suggested.

And here it may not be out of place to state that, in accordance with the views of the legislature on the subject of the publication of annual reports, as manifested by the passage of chapter 32, laws of 1874, it has been deemed not only proper, but a duty, in the preparation of the reports of this office, to give all statistical information in as condensed a form as has appeared to be compatible with a clear presentation of such information; and for the same reason, nothing has been published, except that which has been required by direct provision of law, or which has appeared to be of general interest and utility. The adoption of a different course would make it an easy matter to prepare much larger reports, but it is believed that they would not contain additional information such as would be of any real value to the public.

Section 4, chapter 48, general laws of 1871, amendatory of section 4, chapter 24, general laws of 1870, authorizes and requires the state treasurer, immediately on the receipt of the annual state tax or license fee from any railroad company, for the purchase of the stock of which any debt may have been created by a town, city or village, as provided in said acts, to place to the credit of such town, city or village, the whole amount of said license fee so received, and in such proportion as shall be in an equal ratio to the indebtedness incurred by each.

It is provided by section 8 of said act of 1871, that when any bonds of any such town city or village shall be duly registered in the office of the secretary of state, as provided in said act, the said secretary of state shall annually ascertain the amount of principal and interest for the current year, due and accrued, and to accrue on such bonds, and that from the amount so ascertained he shall deduct the amount in the state treasury, placed to the credit of such town, city or village; and that he shall then, in accordance with the provisions of said act, certify to the proper officers the amount due on such bonds, for interest or principal, and unprovided for. Such amount is then to be levied and collected with the state tax.

Under the provisions of the acts named, there have been registered in this office twenty-five bonds of two hundred and fifty dollars each, issued by the town of Staunton; twenty-five bonds of like amount issued by the town of Star Prairie, and twenty-five bonds for five hundred dollars each issued by the town of Richmond, all in the county of St. Croix. All of these bonds were issued in aid of the North Wisconsin Railway Company, are dated January 1, 1872, payable January 1, 1892, and bear interest at seven per cent.

Until the present year, it was necessary to levy a tax for a portion of the interest due, but this year the license fee paid by the company, has been not only sufficient for this purpose, but leaves a small balance to the credit of such towns, applicable under the terms of said acts to the payment of the principal of said bonds. For a full explanation of this matter reference is made to the laws above cited.

Chapter 119, general laws of 1868, provides for the payment of the postage of state officers. It is recommended that this act be so amended as to include necessary telegraphing. The business of the office occasionally requires the sending of telegraphic dispatches, and there does not appear to be any direct provision of law relating to the payment of expenses incurred therefor. While the amount necessary for such purposes, in the course of a year, is very inconsiderable, still there should be a direct sanction of law for its payment.

The present year, all returns required by law have been received from the counties, except the county of Dodge, in time to have the information which they contain included in this report. The records of the county named were accidentally burned in the month of September last, and hence it became impossible for the officers of that county to send some returns. This fact should be remembered in comparing the aggregates of statistics found in this report with those of preceding years.

Joint resolution No 2, approved February 6, 1877, provided for the exchange of copies of the last Legislative Manual for similar publications of other states. In accordance with this resolution, copies of the Manual referred to were forwarded to the proper officers of the various states and territories. Some copies of similar publications were received in exchange, and have been placed in the state library. From the officers of other states replies have been received, stating that no provision of law existed for the publication of similar books, and hence that none could be sent in exchange.

In conclusion, it is thought proper to say that it is a pleasure to acknowledge the general fidelity and efficiency of those who have assisted in the discharge of the duties of this office during the past four years; also, to acknowledge the uniform courtesy and kindness of those who have been in charge of other departments necessarily associated to some extent with this, in the performance of many official duties. And it may not be improper to here express the hope that the officer who may be selected by the suffrages of the people of the state to take charge of the affairs of this office in January next, may find the duties and associations of the place as agreeable and pleasant as they have been to the writer.

Respectfully submitted,

PETER DOYLE,
Secretary of State.

APPENDIX "N."

ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
COMMISSIONERS OF PUBLIC PRINTING

Of the State of Wisconsin, for the Fiscal Year ending September 30, 1877.

• OFFICE OF COMMISSIONERS OF PUBLIC PRINTING,
MADISON, October 10, 1877.

To His Excellency, HARRISON LUDINGTON,
Governor of the State of Wisconsin:

SIR:—In accordance with the requirements of chapter 32, of the general laws of 1874, the Commissioners of Public Printing have the honor to submit their annual report.

PRINTING DURING THE PAST YEAR.

As the expense of the printing of the state during the past fiscal year is given in detail in the report of the Secretary of State, it is not deemed necessary to repeat the same herein, and hence summaries only are given.

The amounts paid for publishing and advertising are as follows:

Publishing general laws in newspapers.....	$14,976 00
Publishing local laws in newspapers.....	818 40
Advertising sales of lands.....	1,639 10
Publishing notices and proclamations.....	931 35
Total	$28,364 85

The following table shows the amount paid for printing, ruling and binding, together with cost of paper:

For what purpose.	Cost of printing, ruling, and binding.	Cost of paper.	Total cost.
Legislative Manual	$1,216 95	$170 50	$1,387 45
All other printing for Legislature.....	3,521 09	857 08	4,378 17

Printing for State Dairymen's Associa'n	127 93	107 10	245 03
Total.....	$26,051 32	$12,105 00	$38,156 32

On the first day of January last, the contract of E. B. Bolens, as state printer, expired, and that of Carpenter & Tenney, for doing the state printing for two years ensuing, took effect. The work was done by this firm until April, when it was transferred to David Atwood. No assignment of the contract was made, however, and the sureties of Carpenter & Tenney are still held for the fulfillment of the contract entered into by the latter.

GEOLOGICAL REPORT.

In accordance with the provisions of chapter 121, laws of 1876, the commissioners of public printing advertised for sealed proposals for printing the complete geological report, which were opened on the 15th day of September, 1876, and the contract awarded jointly to Atwood & Culver, of Madison, and Seifert, Gugler & Co., of Milwaukee, their bid being the lowest and best one, and as follows:

Composition, plain, figure, and rule and figure, 38 cents per thousand ems..

Press work, 38 cents per token of 250 impressions.

Folding, per hundred sections of 16 pages each, 4 cents.

Binding, cloth, beveled edges, gilt title on back and state seal in gilt on side, 30 cents per volume.

Wood cuts, 42 cents per square inch, and the same to become the property of the state.

Engraving, full page diagrams, $4\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ inches, at 25 cents per square inch, the same to become the property of the state.

For printing the first 2,500 impressions of said diagrams, including paper, $8; for additional presswork on same, including paper, $3.25 per thousand impressions.

Furnishing plates, $4\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ inches, in black and two tints, first 2,500 copies of each, \$45.05; additional copies \$10.25 per thousand.

Furnishing 2,500 copies of each of fourteen maps, 23×27 , $388 per map, including paper and stitching into atlas, with paper cover.

The work has been pushed forward as rapidly as possible, under the supervision of the state geologist, and is, at the present time, nearly ready for delivery.

PURCHASE OF PAPER.

But one general purchase of paper has been made during the past fiscal year, the bids for which were opened on the 25th of May, and the contract for both classes of paper awarded to Bradner, Smith & Co., of Chicago, under which the following paper was furnished:

FIRST CLASS.

- 1125½ reams 50 lb book, 25×38 .
- 44½ reams 60 lb book, 25×38 .
- 45½ reams 82 lb book, 37×42 .
- 40½ reams 40 lb S. S. & C. book, 21×32 .

SECOND CLASS.

- 40 reams Weston's 40 lb record medium.
- 25½ reams 70 lb granite, 20×25 .
- 16½ reams 40 lb granite, 20×25 .
- 25 reams 36 lb double flatcap.
- 30 reams 28 lb folio.
- 5000 sheets Cranes' No. 21 bond, 17×22 .

Previous to this the purchase of one hundred and fifty reams of 50 lb book, eleven reams of 40 lb granite cover paper, and five reams of 40 lb ledger medium, had been made necessary by an unusual amount of printing authorized by the last legislature. It was obtained from the state printer at the same rates paid by the state under the last previous contract, as follows: Book paper,

14—SEC. ST.

[Doc. 1.]

10²⁴/₁₀₀ cents per pound; granite, 15 cents per pound; medium, 25 cents per pound. A special purchase of paper was also made in February last for printing the geological report, comprising 140 reams of 90 lb S. S. & C. book, 28 × 42, at 15 cents per pound.

At the close of the last fiscal year a supply of paper had been contracted for, but not received or included among the purchases of that year. It is therefore included among the purchases of this year, and is as follows:

FIRST CLASS.

1,200 reams book paper, 25x28, 50 lb at 10 24-100 cents per lb.
40 reams print paper, 25x38, 40 lb..... at 8½ cents per lb.

SECOND CLASS.

8,000 sheets Crane's No. 21 bond, 17x22... at $22 00 per M.
2,000 sheets Crane's No. 21 bond, 16x24..... at 21 00 per M.
10 reams granite medium, 20x35, 40 lb..... at 15 cents per lb
10 reams ledger medium, 18x28, 40 lb..... at 25 cents per lb
